Community hears about Francis W. Parker expansion

BY JIM VAIL

Francis Parker is an expensive private school in Lincoln Park and it wants to expand. Those plans are infuriating the people who live in the condominium buildings that stand in its way.

The school bought the 19-unit condo building just north of the school at 317-325 W. Belden and plans to convert it into classrooms.

They tried to buy the condo building next door at 327-335 W. Belden, but were thwarted by the homeowners who accused the school of using fraudulence to force a bulk sale and thus filed a lawsuit.

But despite the negative publicity the private school has generated that compared their actions to a game of Monopoly, a community online forum on Thursday, Sept. 17 was mostly in support of the school which said it will keep the facade of the building it bought so that nothing changes in terms of the look and feel of the neighborhood.

Parker is nestled between the Lincoln Park Zoo on the east, Webster Ave. to the south, and busy Clark St. to the west. They are looking to expand north, and already own six units in the Belden by the Park condo. The owners claimed the school used a straw man to hide the identity of the buyers because of the outrage homeowners have expressed

Broken water pipe has become a North Center nightmare

Sally Smith next to the troublesome sewer.

BY JIM VAIL

About three years ago Sally Smith, who lives on the 3900 block of N. Seeley Ave., noticed that there was flooding on the east side of her street in the North Center neighborhood. The sewer grate is right in front of her home, so she and her neighbors experience the worst of it when the rains come.

Each time it rains or the snow melts, Smith clears up the leaves and debris that block the sewer grate and the water then flows freely.

That was all good until just clearing the leaves and debris method stopped working. Smith and her neighbor took a closer look under the sewer grate and saw standing water. They knew cleaning out the debris would not work.

Last winter, after a strong snowfall, the water would freeze in the street, sometimes freezing parked cars in place, making it next to impossible for cars to park or get out. They had to walk almost a block north to the alley in order to have access to cross the street.

So Smith and her neighbor called the 47th Ward alderman at the time - Ameya Pawar. The alderman's office told them that there is a broken pipe 15' below, so the water is not flowing. The alderman's staff told them they opened a work order ticket, but the city never came out to repair it. Smith said each time they called the alderman's office they would take the info down and say they would call the city's Water Dept., but nothing changed.

After a while, they stopped calling the alderman's office and Construction and renovations of DePaul College Prep totaling $12.6 million included the addition of seven new science labs, four maker spaces, the St. Louise de Marillac Chapel, and a new 1,500 seat outdoor stadium and turf field for football, soccer, lacrosse, and a straightaway track.

DePaul College Prep celebrates blessing, dedication of its new campus

Administrators, families, students, and guests of DePaul College Prep, a co-ed Catholic, Vincentian high school celebrated the blessing, dedication, and ribbon cutting of its new 17-acre campus in Roscoe Village on Sept. 19.

Cardinal Blase J. Cupich, Archbishop of Chicago, presided over the ceremony and was joined by Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot who gave congratulatory remarks.

The event included the dedication of the Mary A. Dempsey Academic Center and blessing of the new 17-acre campus, with special emphasis on the school's Alumni Plaza on St. Vincent's Circle; the 1,500-seat athletic stadium for football, soccer and lacrosse; the student commons; the St. Louise de Marillac Chapel; and the environmental studies urban garden. The Academic Center, named for school president Mary A. Dempsey, will be the legacy of her significant contributions, support and dedication to the ad-

One month after getting robbery plea deal, man robbed Boystown store

BY CWBCHICAGO

Jaheim McQuay got a second chance. And may have blown it.

In January, he was among three people charged with robbing and battering a pregnant woman and her friend at the Roosevelt Red Line station.

In June, prosecutors agreed to drop the robbery count and allowed the 19-year-old to take a sentence of probation on a lesser charge.

Less than a month later, McQuay and another man robbed a convenience store in Boystown, prosecutors said during a bond court hearing Sept. 16. A judge ordered him held without bail.

CTA attack

Police in early January released CTA surveillance images of six attackers who battered and robbed the four-months-pregnant woman and her friend at the Roosevelt station a few days earlier. The offenders punched and kicked the victims in their chests, heads, and necks. Both victims were treated at Mercy Hospital and released.

During the melee, a member of the mob took one of the victims' phones and allegedly handed it to McQuay.

Disappointments on grand scale can be overpowering

By Thomas J. O'Gorman

The pandemic has made poor souls of us all.

In spite of careful internal cautions, we have all experienced unwanted fears and apprehensions.

Quarantine has worn away the polish from our exteriors and on the normally patient quality of our willingness to stay calm, go easy and let our better selves rule.

But a profound sense of wounds suffered is also a part of our pandemic story. The loss of access to friends, the absence of critical family members, the altered judgments that isolation and worry bring about. The restrictive environment that has been the incubator of our pandemic lives.

What's worse comes when easing up on the restrictions actually exacerbates the emotional feelings of isolation. Deepening despair, loneliness, and a never before experienced comfort in the hermit-like lifestyle. Taking comfort in being alone. Separate from the commotion of others, finding some pleasure in being free from the complexity of other peoples' living.

Kind of a "Stockholm Syndrome" discovered in our keeping to ourselves, free of the bedlam of other's choices, chatter and conflicts.

Alone we have way too much focus on ourselves, perhaps for the first time in many years. The lack of clutter might just feel good.

Perhaps you've found relief in your need to be alone, stay at home, or keep your mask on, even when by yourself?

My favorite comfort food in my quarantine remains my tie to my pre-pandemic world: Very soft scrambled eggs cooked in unsalted Irish butter. Crisp bacon. Buttered toast from homemade bread. Strong mugs of black tea with cream and sugar.

I'd take this restorative menu for breakfast, lunch or dinner. Dinner, perhaps my favorite. Better than turkey and all the trimmings. Or a Gibson's steak, Sushi at Mirai or a warm lobster roll at RL.

Full disclosure. I have also acquired the taste for gelato. Talenti Gelato. Black Raspberry with tiny chocolate bits. Mediterranean Green mint. And Sea Salt Caramel. And some Tate's chocolate chip cookies. They all bring comfort, when the human touch won't do.

Pandemic gives us the chance to reexamine what values such vittles have. Even the humble egg.

During the quarantine a great change is taking place, slowly, in our way of life. Treasured institutions and ways of doing things have been upended.

Have you had a visit to the doctor yet on your computer? Has your favorite restaurant been closed? Have your usual travel plans been curtailed? Not much going on in front of the blackboard in schools. Got your laptop handy? Has anyone near and dear to you died recently? How about that funeral? If there was one. Hardly any weddings. Of course, very little feasting.

I was recently at my doctor's lab for blood work. Just getting there was an ordeal. My Uber had to travel down Monroe St. from DesPlaines Ave. to Michigan Ave. Across from the Art Institute. You really eyeball the Loop. What a mess. Depressing streetscape. Empty. No one out and about.

After my lab visit, I decided to have lunch at Gibson's. My driver took Lake Shore Dr. to Chicago Ave. Once again very depressing. Especially looking at the shuttered Navy Pier. My driver, from another continent, tried to take Rush St. to Gibson's. Can't be done. The street is sealed off for outside diners. So I told him to go around the block and drop me off at Ralph Lauren Bar & Grill. My first time back since March 14. Gracious welcome. Lots of catching up. But so much had changed. In fact, everything. The seating arrangements. The menu. The staff. The management. My temperature taken before being seated.

But there was blueberry pie. And that became the glue of my lunch. The familiar. Memory laden. Purple berry summer favorite just made everything all right. I wore my mask. But I took my gloves off.

While familiarity was everywhere, there was no kidding myself. Everything had changed. So nothing was the same. Quite the metaphor for life as we now know it.

In the face of such systemic change, maybe there's little we can do, besides reading all of Jane Austen. Learning better French or finding the perfect recipe for Boeuf Bourguignon as autumn days approach.

Maybe a refreshed poetic intuition could better brace us for the uncertainty of change. Maybe a more arts-focused view of the world might help us regain our sense of what really matters in life.

In Chicago, as the historic Palmer House is foreclosed, perhaps we need to recommit ourselves to making our city better than it ever was. Despite the growing loss of confidence in our mayor, or the strategic fears her leadership is causing. Or the emptiness we feel when some of our treasured favorites from baseball and football to Church on Sunday have been reconfigured until we no longer recognize them. Disappointments are a part of life. But when they happen on the grand scale, they can be overpowering.

I wish my grandparents were still alive. They filled the days and nights of our childhood with extraordinary optimism. They were never disappointed by the twists and turns of life. They were always ready with a poem or a few lines of classical literature that so well fed their generation. They knew war in all its horror. On both sides of the Atlantic. They knew fleeing to a new land for survival. The loneliness of having family far away. The death of children. The struggle for achievement, and the complications of assimilation. But they rose above it all. No belly-aching, just the assemblage of a fresh, growing family around their table for feasting and gratitude. Chasing away the brokenness of the moment with stability and survival that comes from a future in which they were always confident. And to which they were always true.

CRIME STATS: Last week in our city of peace, love and understanding, 16 people were killed and 100 total were shot and wounded in Chicago through Sept. 19.

ARS GRATIAS ARTIS: Congratulations to famed Chicago sculptor, Richard Hunt, on his

Richard Hunt

85th birthday. Joyous birthday wishes, Richard. Dean of America's great sculptors, his work makes Chicago famous. His prestigious works that adorn the National Museum of African American History and Culture in Washington, D.C., are among his greatest achievements.

ARCHITECT'S SHAME: In a bizarre twist, the American Institute of Architects Chicago board, embroiled in the mayhem of former Executive Director Zurich Esposito's departure, are now insisting on an age ceiling for future members of the board. No one over 50. When was the last time anyone reached out for "ageism" as a life preserver in troubled waters? Who's advising these people? Has the City of Chicago been embarrassed nationally by their antics? In a stranger twist, member architects are now said to want a meeting with the board and eye a meeting to vote on rehiring Esposito at the institute. But the board insists they need not heed the membership. Next stop could be a courthouse. Board President April Hughes is belittling the membership in her passion for refusing to see any groundswell pro-Esposito's rehiring as binding. But members say they will vote to remove obstructionist board members.

CEAD MILE FAILTE: Ireland's new Consul General in Chicago, Kevin Byrne, has arrived for a Sept. 2020 posting. Joining the Irish Dept. of Foreign Affairs in 2010, he served in EU Division, Corporate Services, and in Ireland's Consulate in San Francisco. Prior to taking up his post in Chicago, he was secretary to the Management Board of the Dept. and policy liaison with Áras an Uachtaráin – the office of the President. Before joining the foreign service, Byrne worked in the European institutions in Brussels, the think tank sector in London, and taught in France and Japan. A graduate of Trinity College Dublin, the London School of Economics, and a Naughton scholar, he is married to his husband, Aristotle Garcia Byrne.

TITANIC SPILL: A little bird with wet feathers says that when a pipe broke in the posh pad on the top floor of an architecturally historic Gold Coast full floor apartment, all the Architectural Digest flats below got soaked and damaged badly. The owner was nowhere in sight, serving as President Trump's ambassador to a colorful kingdom.

A fundraiser with lots of sole

Heart of the 'Hood

by Felicia Dechter

They say never judge a person unless you have walked a mile in their shoes, so here's a chance to let someone walk a mile in yours.

Whether it be your boogey shoes, your blue suede shoes, your kinky boots, or just shoes you no longer wear, please think about donating them to North Side Housing and Supportive Services (NSHSS) shoe collection drive. NSHSS, 4410 N. Ravenswood Ave., helps more than 700 women and men annually. Its mission is to end homelessness by providing housing and comprehensive supportive services, as well as to strive to eradicate the conditions that cause, contribute to and exacerbate homelessness.

I'm head over heels about this fundraiser, which ends mid-October. It's so easy to participate in and it will hopefully propel me into cleaning out my own closet. It's good to know that my shoes will be given a second chance, and they'll make a difference in people's lives.

Here's how it works: All donated shoes will be redistributed through Funds2Orgs, which helps impoverished people start, maintain and grow businesses in countries such as Haiti, Honduras and other nations in Central America and Africa. North Side Housing will earn funds based on the total weight of the shoes they've collected, and Funds2Orgs will buy all of the donated footwear from them and then disperse it through its network of microenterprise partners in developing nations.

Proceeds from the Funds2Orgs shoe sales are used to feed, clothe and house families. One budding entrepreneur in Haiti even earned enough to send to her son to law school. So far, as of last weekend, 1,000 pair of shoes had been collected. The goal is 2,500.

"Funds2Org's shoe drive fundraiser gives North Side Housing an opportunity to raise funds without asking anyone to open their wallets," said Cari O'Brien, development and communications manager at NSHSS. "It's a way to grow awareness of our agency and the work we do within the community, while providing supporters a way to become engaged and learn more about North Side Housing as well."

these businesses off the ground," added O'Brien. "The shoes definitely don't end up in a landfill, they get a second life for sure. And we de-clutter our closets. I like to call it a win-win-win. As a supporter you can do something and you don't have to open your checkbook or wallet."

It's not a traditional fundraiser, but it is a creative way to engage support, said O'Brien. It doesn't have to be fancy footwear that you're donating -- they'll take any season footwear and any size and type, including footwear like soccer cleats.

"Anything, as long as it is in gently worn condition or better," said O'Brien.

Shoes can be dropped off 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 4410 N. Ravenswood Ave., suite 101. Please have shoe laces tied together when possible. There are also drop off sites in Irving Park and Avondale, contact O'Brien at support@northsidehousing.org for more info.

Oh, if you're a loafer and don't feel like closet cleaning, here's another way to be involved. On Oct. 2, NSHSS will hold a virtual "Oktoberfest: Feast For Better Housing," with an Oktoberfest cooking demonstration by The Chopping Block featuring a mouth watering, three-course menu of Obatzda (Beer-cheese) dip -paired with Krombacher Pils; Beer braised bratwurst with sauerkraut & onion -- paired with Lagunitas IPA Beer; and a caramelized apple puff pastry tart paired with Weihenstephan Wheat Beer.

Skills covered in the class include: Getting familiar with German cuisine, braising and grilling sausages, knife proficiency, balancing flavors, selecting and caramelizing apples and working with puff pastry.

There's also a raffle drawing filled with prizes from ACM Music School, Dank Haus, Merz Apothecary, Gene's Sausage Shop, Baker Miller, Bottles and Cans and more. Sign up and save your spot, with proceeds supporting NSHSS programs including its COVID-19 expenses and the

Lords of Lane Tech class rings speak up on Indian issue

Teen swoon

The Home Front

by Don DeBat

BY DON DEBAT
The Home Front

The Indian-loving Lane Tech tribe is on the warpath.

Potential removal of an iconic Native American statue—as the focal point of Lane Tech College Prep High School’s Memorial Garden—has developed in recent weeks into a generational donnybrook between war veterans and older alumni and students, versus faculty and a conservative school council.

Now the focus is shifting to the tens of thousands of Lane Tech graduation rings coveted by alumni, who view the bands—which showcase both the head of an Indian in a full-feathered warrior bonnet and an image of the school’s iconic clock tower—as a proud representation of their high school years.

“What will they want us to do next? Melt down our class rings?” asked Richard Bailey, a Jan. 1962 Lane graduate. “Should we change the name of the state of Illinois, which is an Indian word referring to Native American people?”

Perhaps we should rename the city of Chicago, dubbed after a wild, smelly field of onions? And, let’s not forget the dozens of streets on the city’s Northwest Side with monikers like: Blackhawk, Dowagiac, Lathrobe, Lightfoot, Milwaukee, Mohawk, Nakomis, Natoma, Oconto, Oswego, Potawatomie, Sauganash, Seminole, Sioux, Tahoma and Tonty, to name a few.

In early August, the Lane Tech School Council unanimously agreed to start a process to remove the warrior statue from the Memorial Garden after Principal Brian Tennison directed the organization to address the “Indian” issue with a vote.

The restored bronze statue titled “Shooting the Stars,” depicts a Native American warrior in a feathered headdress gazing to the heavens. The warrior statue stands on a pedestal in the central, open-air, private garden at Lane Tech, 2501 W. Addison St. in West Lakeview.

Some students and alumni say the statue and other Indian symbols on the Lane Tech campus reinforce harmful racial stereotypes of Native Americans.

However, a plaque attached to the base of the war monument simply states: “In reverent tribute to those Laneites who gave the last full measure of devotion for justice, and the American way of life, this memorial is solemnly dedicated.”

Lane Tech High School’s “Shooting the Stars” statue. (Inset) Don Garbarino’s 1955 Lane Tech class ring.

The Memorial Garden and “Shooting the Stars” statue by sculptor John Szaton was dedicated on Oct. 30, 1947, to honor Lane Tech’s 314 Gold Star Heroes who died in World War II. At least 6,539 Laneites served in World War II. Some 8,174 Lane Tech students served in the Armed Forces in World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam, and in the Global War on Terrorism, according to a 2002 survey.

“Prior to this year, has anyone ever complained about the statue?” Bailey asked. “This monument to Lane veterans—and to all who were educated there—must be allowed to stand for future generations.”

Bailey urged legal action should be implemented to prevent removal of the statue. “Are there any Lane Tech alumni attorneys who would be willing to take this on? If not, we need to seek one out, preferably who would act pro bono,” Bailey said.

If a lawsuit fails, Bailey believes a poll of Lakeview residents should be conducted to see if this proposed waste of money is condoned, or if statue-removal funds would be better spent on a monument to neighborhood residents’ lives lost to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Lane ring serendipity

Over the decades, it is likely that hundreds of Lane class rings were given away, stolen, or lost, never to be found again.

Don Garbarino, 83, forgot he gave his Class of 1955 Lane ring to Barbara, an attractive blonde girl he dated at the Hub Skating Rink while a senior in high school in the mid-1950s.

In 2012, Barbara, a recent widow, who Garbarino hadn’t seen in 57 years, reached out to him. “On a lark she dialed 411. She confessed she was going over her life’s episodes and remembered me as one of her first loves.” After a brief conversation, she extended a dinner invitation at her home in a northern suburb, and Garbarino readily accepted.

“We had a lovely fish dinner and wine, and the ensuing conversation centered on our days at the skating rink and our times together. It was then that she placed a small container in front of me. ‘Here, I want you to have this,’ she said.”

“The instant I laid eyes on it,

I knew that was my 1955 class ring. I didn’t remember giving it to her. From time to time over the decades I thought it either slipped off my finger or I had somehow misplaced it,” Garbarino recalled.

“I’ve held it all these years and promised myself to give it back to you if I ever ran into you again,” Barbara said.

The ring was made by a company that was later bought out by Jostens, who told Garbarino he could have the ring re-sized and cleaned for free by contacting a company rep who would soon be at Lane Tech taking school ring orders.

“I met the rep in the school cafeteria. Before leaving I told him I had paid about $25 for the ring in 1955, then asked the cost to duplicate that ring today,” Garbarino said. “You’re looking at about $750,” he said.”

Garbarino has received countless compliments on his restored Lane ring over the years. “Much intricate workmanship went into making it. One highlight is the Native Indian image cast below the Lane Tech clock tower. And there it will remain.”

Incidentally, this writer’s Lane Tech ring, initialed “DD” with a green stone and plated with 14-carat gold was lost or stolen during a move in 2001. If anyone knows its whereabouts, a reward awaits.

Lincoln Park Conservancy 2020 Walk the Pond

The Lincoln Park Conservancy's 2020 Walk the Pond virtual event will run Sept. 26 - Oct. 31.

Walk the Pond has traditionally been a one-day fundraising and family event in support of their work in Lincoln Park, but not this year.

Walk the Pond is going virtual this year.

The outdoors can be a wonderful resource to de-stress and center our families suffering under a pandemic.

Walkers will need to register for access to fun and educational nature activities, which can also serve as a break from screen time for kids or adults alike.

It's free to participate, with a $20 donation encouraged for each family or group. Proceeds benefit the Conservancy's restoration of North Pond. For more information call 773-883-7275.

Since their founding in 1984, the LPC has been at the forefront of historic conservation, ecological restoration, park programming and management. LPC staff their field staff in the park six days a week caring for park sites. They maintain native plants, gardens and trees, educate the public, and manage volunteer programs. All LPC field staff have college degrees in environmental fields.

Artis Senior Living of Lakeview is hosting a virtual Family and Caregivers Town Hall 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 30 presented by Michelle Bellantoni, MD, CMD, Gerontology – Johns Hopkins; Morgan Katz, MD, MHS, Infectious Disease – Johns Hopkins; and Ravi Passi, MD, FACP, CMD, Internal Medicine, Advanced Primary and Geriatric Care.

Several months have passed since Artis announced their partnership with physicians from Johns Hopkins. Through their partnership, they have refined protocols and began safely welcoming new residents to their communities as their residents and their loved ones navigate the COVID-19 pandemic.

To register for the Virtual Town Hall visit TheArtisWay.com/SafeLiving.

Information about the coronavirus continues to evolve daily and Artis wants to share that information with North Siders. Their team of experts will provide updates on evolving changes in the COVID-19 world, and on Covid-19 treatments and vaccines, and what the future looks like.

Register by Monday, Sept. 28 at TheArtisWay.com/SafeLiving.

Do you believe a government office can be efficient, give timely service, be considerate of citizens using it by offering helpful explanations, have clerks pleasant to speak with who have been trained well, and function well in their jobs?

No? Well visit the Secretary of State's office on Elston Ave. and see this miracle for yourself.

From the time you approach the door an outside monitor asks what you need and directs you to the correct door.

Then an inside monitor asks your department destination, points out the direction and turns you over to the next clerk if you're confused, as I was. That clerk escorts you in person until you're in the correct line, or chair, they then notify the monitor of that line where you are sitting and where your place in line is. That clerk then gets you up when it's your turn at a window or camera for the next steps in your procedure.

I found this nice service twice, once to renew my drivers license and next to get my state license sticker.

Diane, the woman who did the interviewing and processing, deserves special commendation for her expertise and service. I am elderly, after the computer search and forms, she left her window to proctor the vision test herself so I could avoid another wait in line - as well as at the cashier while I sat and she stood in line for me. She also tried to get supervisory approval to cancel the written test, which I would not have thought to do for myself. When I was done she said a courteous goodbye and pointed to the exit, then returned to her window for the next applicant.

I was flabbergasted.

The other surprising and pleasant event came after a very inflated, wrong property tax bill.

Michelle Jordan and Mary Luke went above and beyond their job duties to reach me from their homes and delivered to me, in person, the forms they accessed and completed themselves, and which I signed for in my own yard. Mary then took these forms to her own computer to file with Cook County. The county mailed me a Certificate of Error a few days later. I didn't even need to go to a mailbox. Those two ladies have helped me before, the word "service" is prominent in their functioning.

If these two office clerks can do it, why not all? They have the wrong CEO's.

Happy anniversary... to Noreen Heron and her award-winning public relations firm, Heron Agency, which is still going strong after 20 successful years! I've had the pleasure of working with Noreen and many of her staffers for the last two decades, and I can honestly say that when I'm dealing with Heron Agency, I know everything will go smoothly. Noreen, who was once an intern for this newspaper before she started her company 20 years ago, is one of the smartest and most generous people I've ever worked with. I thank her for many years of fun shows, events, parties, etc. May Heron Agency continue to thrive and celebrate many more anniversaries!

Another sad sign of the times... COVID-19 continues to spread its wrath with the news of the closing of two outstanding Chicago restaurants, Lawry's Prime Rib, 100 E. Ontario St., and Twisted Tapas, 1146 W. Pratt Ave., in Rogers Park. The latter closes on Sunday and when I went to make a last supper reservation for this week, the person on the phone said they were "crushed" to have to close their doors.

Lawry's owner Richard Frank held an emotional meeting on Saturday to notify his employees. The 46-year-old renowned restaurant will close on Dec. 31 when its lease is up, although there is a re-open possibility at that location or elsewhere, according to various news reports.

Longtime Lawry's employees are in shock.

"I was just so devastated, I was ready to cry," said Debbie Garcia, a server at Lawry's for the last 34 years who attended the meeting via Zoom. "That was like our second home -- everybody's second home. I spent more than half my life there."

"We were a big family -- one of the biggest," added Garcia. "This is going to be a big loss for the city of Chicago."

Indeed, it is. A huge loss. And losing the seven-year-old Twisted Tapas is devastating for me and my neighbors.

Let's hope that one day soon, COVID will "magically disappear," just like our president has repeatedly said it would. Meanwhile, thanks for masking to those who do.

Proposed concept for Belmont Avenue junction and bus turnaround area.

LSD-Belmont Ave. bus turnaround proposed for lakefront

Common improvements such as reducing bottlenecks at junctions, straightening the Oak St. curve and replacing the Chicago Ave. traffic signal with a full access junction were announced last week.

Plans for the future of North Lake Shore Dr. [NLS] are coming out in bits and pieces and this week city and state planners have announced a proposal to add a bus turnaround at Lake Shore Dr. and Belmont Ave.

The Redefine The Drive plan hopes that all their roadway improvements will improve transit operations in the NLS Corridor.

Common improvements such as reducing bottlenecks at junctions, straightening the Oak St. curve and replacing the Chicago Ave. traffic signal with a full access junction were announced last week.

This week the group says a new bus-only space at Belmont will improve bus travel times and reliability in the corridor over a do no harm, no-action alternative.

The proposal calls for adding bus-only lanes along the Outer Drive north of Belmont; and/or secondarily a choice of providing shared bus/auto managed lanes at the same location.

The planners claim that bus-only queue jump lanes or bus-only ramps which provide dedicated sections in advance of general purpose traffic.

They hope to provide bus turnarounds at the lakefront to allow for better east-west transit access to Lincoln Park, as well as more efficient east-west bus movements at the ends of their routes. They claim this also allows flexibility for several bus routes to reach more destinations within the park, and adds bus staging areas nearby Lincoln Park bus stops to minimize unreliable bus travel times from remote staging areas.

It does not deal with the fact in a post-pandemic era, ridership has dropped 90%. Data now shows that with many people working from home, and others refusing to even ride buses anymore, why they think there is still demand for adding bus infrastructure to the North Lakefront.

Prosecutors charged lawyer Sujal Pandya, 36, with felony criminal damage to property to Sheffield's Beer and Wine Garden [inset photo].

Indiana lawyer charged with smashing Lakeview bar's windows last winter

An attorney from Indiana was charged Sept. 17 with smashing all of the windows at a Lakeview bar with a sledgehammer in February, causing nearly $59,000 in damage.

Prosecutors charged lawyer Sujal Pandya, 36, with felony criminal damage to property in connection with the rampage at Sheffield's Beer and Wine Garden, 3258 N. Sheffield, on Feb. 1, before the pandemic lockdown took place.

Sixteen custom-made windows and two glass doors were destroyed, according to a CPD report.

The bar's surveillance cameras captured video of a hooded man using a sledgehammer to smash out all of their windows around 4 o'clock that morning.

"We know who it was. We got him on surveillance video," one of the bar's employees told Block Club Chicago at the time.

Another employee in February told Block Club that the suspect was "a lawyer who we banned more than a month ago." Pandya, who lives in Ft. Wayne, turned himself in to Chicago police this week after learning that he was being charged in the case, his attorney said.

Prosecutors did not offer a motive for the crime, but an assistant state's attorney said Pandya was a regular patron at the bar. Replacement of the custom windows cost $58,910, according to the state.

It is Pandya's first arrest. Although Pandya has a law degree from Notre Dame, he has not been working since December, according to his attorney.

Judge Arthur Willis released Pandya on a recognizance bond.

Classical street festival changing format for COVID

Hybrid audio walking tour, live concert blocks planned

Organizers of the annual Thirsty Ears classical music street festival have modified their format in order to keep crowds to a minimum during the ongoing coronavirus pandemic.

Access Contemporary Music (ACM) has re-imagined the event as a hybrid audio walking tour and live concert this year.

Ticket holders will be able to participate in a 90-minute block of live music, selected at the time of purchase. But they also will have the chance to explore 10 sites in Ravenswood and Lincoln Square that hold historical and cultural significance, including locations where the poet Carl Sandburg wrote some of his famous Chicago poetry, the site of the city's first – and still-standing – wood-frame church, Chicago's first movie theater, and a long-running musical instrument factory.

At each site, participants will learn about the local history, hear from a composer about how the space inspired them musically, and then listen to a one-minute piece composed especially for the location.

After each performance, attendees will be able to access incentives to support neighborhood businesses.

"We wanted to be able to present this unique event in a way that also celebrated the vibrant community we serve and gave people a chance to support the incredible businesses that are here," ACM executive director and Thirsty Ears producer Seth Boustead said.

The audio tour will be available Sept. 30, and concerts will take place Oct. 9-11 in the 4700 block of North Ravenswood Avenue.

Tickets cost $20 for general admission including the walking tour and a 90-minute block of music. The $30 "Marquee" tickets also include access to the Sound of Silent Film Festival taking place Oct. 9. For more information call (773) 334-3650.

Open House Chicago offers self-guided exploration of the 'city of architecture'

The Chicago Architecture Center's [CAC] 10th annual Open House Chicago [OHC] festival will feature nearly 50 online and in-person experiences highlighting 20-plus local neighborhoods Oct. 16-25.

"As we approach the end of a year that has brought unforeseen challenges to us all, we're proud to offer (this) gift to the city's residents," CAC president and CEO Lynn J. Osmond said.

Osmond said the festival's new format was designed to help people "learn more about 'the city of architecture' from wherever they're most comfortable."

OHC 2020 includes more than 20 self-guided exploration trails with audio narration by local public figures, all accessible via a free, location-enabled mobile app for iOS and Android devices.

Visitors to each OHC 2020 area can access free resources that will let them explore and select routes on a variety of themes, learn more about buildings and sites of interest in each neighborhood, and browse and register for related online programs.

Out-of-app, analog versions of the OHC content will be available upon request for those with access needs.

OHC participants are asked to observe all current recommendations from public health officials from the State of Illinois and the City of Chicago. In addition, while select online programs during the festival may include images and video footage of building interiors, visitors should not attempt to enter any of the OHC sites and buildings.

Most OHC trails involve easy to intermediate bicycle rides or walks and are designed to last an hour or less. For more information call (312) 922-3432.

NEW OLD TOWN

ITALIAN: Two Lights Seafood & Oyster on North Ave. closed due to the COVID-19 virus that has affected all of us. A raw seafood bar did not seem appealing in a pandemic world. "Gussie's Handmade Italian" has opened in its place in Old Town at 227 W. North Ave. The space has been completely transformed so that 90% of the tables are booth seating and the atmosphere becomes a warm, neighborly, charming room serving handmade pastas with fresh sauces. Megan and Keane Addington have teamed up with David Thate, whose Grandma Gussie, inspired the handmade Italian cuisine.

ART MARKET: David Cook, "Chelsea Morning" Joni Mitchell 48"/48" on canvas board. Available.

CLOSURES: Sadly some of Chicago's most treasured and trendsetting establishments have not been able to survive the economics of the pandemic. All across town the sadness is felt. Bite, Bar Biscay, Farmhouse Chicago Avenue, La Sardine, Guthrie's Tavern, California Clipper and CC Ferns found survival impossible.

A DIEU MRS. PEEL: Sadly, we all mourn the loss of treasured British actress Dame Diana Rigg. From her leggy days in the spoofing "Avengers" spy genre in the 1960s, to her triumphant longevity as the Duchess of Buccleuch, in "Victoria" and countless other PBS mysteries, Shakespearean classics and costumed think roles, Dame Diana proved "England swings like a pendulum do." All the way to the "Game of Thrones."

THE CROWN: The fourth installment of an intimate inside view of Queen Elizabeth II and the British Royal family, The Crown, starts Nov. 15.

READERS HAVE THEIR SAY: Myra Reilly: Congratulations Thomas, for speaking out for all of us who were born in Chicago and for those who love living here. Tragedy.

Barbra Luce: Your opening paragraphs were so sad, so poignant. It angers me that beautiful Chicago has people in power who either do not care or do not know what to do to take the first step.

REPORTED ON SCC: "So tonight Antifa drove up and down Mount Greenwood streets," says the Second City Cop blog. "There were times they would get of their car and shine flash lights in people faces to try and start trouble. They told 022 it was an art project. They went to any home and recorded homes with addresses that had blue lives matter Trump flags. I personally saw them recording a little girl on a bike who was terrified and tried to cover her face. We were ordered not to engage at all. I am furious and outraged and sickened by this and it makes me sick to my stomach. The good men of Mount Greenwood came out and told them to leave. One vehicle proudly said, "We are Antifa and we are recording all of you.""

Offender caught on Damen, charged with looting

Vincent Bryant

Vincent Bryant, 25, of the 5800 block of S. Bishop, was charged with one felony count – Looting by Individual; one felony count – Burglary, and one felony count – Online Sale/Stolen Property under $300 after he was arrested on Sept. 15, in the 3900 block of N. Damen.

Bryant was found in possession of and attempting to sell merchandise that was stolen from a store in the 0-100 block of E. Grand Ave. during the Aug. 10 looting incidents. The offender was placed into custody and charged accordingly.

Man robbed at knife point near Wrigley Field

An armed robber put a knife to a man's neck and robbed him near Wrigley Field Sept. 16, according to a CPD report. No arrests have been made.

The victim, age 19, told police he was near Clark and Waveland when the man approached him, displayed the knife, and demanded his valuables around 10:10 a.m., police spokesperson Kellie Bartoli said.

After getting the victim's money, wallet, and iPhone, the offender fled westbound on Waveland. Police searched the area but weren't able to find the robber, Bartoli said.

The victim, who was not injured, said the robber is a Black male between 20- and 29-years-old who stands about 6'-3" tall and weighs about 150 lbs. He reportedly has dreadlocks and wore a black jacket with dark pants that have a white stripe.

Good fortune brings charges in Red Line robbery

A Chicago man who robbed a Red Line passenger last week is facing felony charges after the detective who was assigned to the case just happened to see him while watching a live CTA surveillance camera feed days later, according to prosecutors.

On Sept. 7, a 25-year-old man told police that he was riding a northbound train when the robber boarded his car at Granville around 10 p.m. The suspect asked to use the victim's phone and then punched the victim in the face and body when he said the man could not use it.

When the victim walked to another train car, the offender followed him and demanded his money while holding his hand inside a bag he was carrying. The victim took his wallet out, and the robber reached into it, took about $20 cash, and fled at the next stop.

The entire incident was captured on CTA surveillance video, according to prosecutors.

One week later, on Sept. 14, the detective who's assigned to the case happened to be watching live CTA camera feeds from the Loop when he saw a man who looked like the robber standing on the Jackson Red Line CTA platform. He arranged for patrol officers to go to the station and detain the suspect.

The robbery victim identified the man, Marcos Rodriguez, 21, as the person who beat and robbed him on the train.

Rodriguez admitted to punching the victim, pretending he had a gun, and taking the man's money, according to the state's allegations. He also identified himself and the victim in CTA surveillance images, prosecutors said.

Judge Mary Marubio set bail for Rodriguez at $200,000 and ordered Rodriguez to go on electronic monitoring if he can post the mandatory $20,000 deposit bond.

Man arrested on Federal drug charge for dealing heroin, fentanyl

A Chicago man has been arrested on a federal drug charge for allegedly selling wholesale quantities of heroin and fentanyl in the West Loop neighborhood of Chicago.

William Townsend, 40, is charged with distribution of a controlled substance. A criminal complaint filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago accuses Townsend of distributing the heroin and fentanyl to two suspected drug traffickers. The sales occurred in a residential building in the 700 block of W. Couch Plc., the complaint states.

During the investigation, law enforcement seized approximately $469,000 in cash and approximately a kilogram of suspected heroin.

Townsend was arrested on Sept. 10. He appeared Sept. 14 before U.S. Magistrate Judge Jeffrey I. Cummings and was ordered to remain detained in federal custody.

Chicago man may have robbed more than 20 people at bank ATMs

Prosecutors say a Chicago man may have robbed more than 20 people at bank ATMs across the city and other jurisdictions this Summer.

Thomas Lewis II

During a bond hearing Sept. 16, Assistant State's Attorney Jack Costello laid out details of two cases against Thomas Lewis II, 33, and told Judge Mary Marubio that four different law enforcement agencies are preparing to bring charges. Lewis was charged with two counts of robbery and operating a financial crimes enterprise, but Costello said "conservatively...at least 20" similar cases involving "dozens of victims" may be linked to Lewis II.

On June 23, Lewis allegedly approached a woman and her service dog as she conducted a transaction at the Citibank ATM, 180 N. Michigan, around 8 p.m. Lewis asked the woman for help using the machine next to her and then inserted a check into the ATM that the woman was using, Costello said.

Lewis then allegedly tried to withdraw money from the woman's account by pushing buttons on her ATM. The woman screamed at him, intervened, pushed him away, and pressed the machine's "cancel" button, Costello said.

But Lewis cornered her, forced her to enter her PIN, and withdrew $700 from her account before fleeing, according to the state.

A witness saw what happened and provided police with a license plate number of the car that the robber used. Police traced the Jeep Wrangler back to Lewis through a rental car agency, Costello said.

On July 29, Lewis robbed a man of $900 through a similar scheme at a South Loop bank branch, according to Costello. During that robbery, Lewis made three $300 withdrawals and told the victim to "back off" because "nobody needs to get shot today," Costello continued.

Both crimes were captured on bank surveillance videos. Lewis admitted to both robberies as well as "others of a similar nature," Costello said. All of the robberies that Lewis is suspected of committing followed the same pattern of approaching customers at ATMs and taking control of the machines, according to Costello.

Lewis was on bail for a pending forgery case at the time of the robberies. He has a history of fraud, forgery, and theft convictions stretching back to 2010, Costello said. Lewis has eight children.

Judge Marubio ordered Lewis held without bail for violating the terms of bail in the pending forgery case. She set bail on the new charges at $10,000. After clearing up the violation of bail bond matter, Lewis will need to post a $1,000 deposit bond and go onto electronic monitoring if he wants to get out of jail before trial, according to Marubio's order.

Two charged in midday shoot-out, car chase through Loop

Daquan Dunn Davarius Minor

Two men have been charged in connection with a shoot-out near Grant Park and a subsequent high-speed chase through the Loop Sept. 15.

Prosecutors said surveillance video shows one of the men handing off a baby he was carrying so he could return gunfire during the incident, which unfolded at 11:19 a.m. outside the Congress Hotel, 520 S. Michigan.

Davarius Minor, 21, Daquan Dunn, 20, and two friends were staying at the hotel when they walked out the front door to get into a car, Assistant State's Attorney James Murphy said during a bond court hearing Sept. 16.

As they approached their vehicle, Minor recognized a man at the intersection of Michigan and Harrison who pulled a gun on him the night before, according to Murphy. As he recognized the other man, the stranger pulled out a gun and fired two shots toward Minor and Dunn.

Minor handed a baby to another member of his group, pulled out his own gun, and fired nine rounds back, Murphy said. No one was struck by the gunfire, and the other man fled from the scene.

Meanwhile, Dunn, Minor, and their party sped from the hotel as police arrived on-scene, according to Murphy. Dunn drove at speeds exceeding 80 mph, ran red lights, and traveled into oncoming traffic through the Loop as police pursued them.

Their car crashed on the 600 block of W. Roosevelt, causing a four-car pile-up. Dunn, Minor, and their two friends ran from the scene, but police rounded them up. Police found a loaded 40-caliber handgun on the car's front passenger floorboard near where Minor sat, Murphy said.

Investigators found eight 40-caliber shell casings near the shooting scene along with two casings from a 45-caliber weapon. The shoot-out was captured on surveillance video, Murphy said. He added that Minor admitted to carrying the firearm for protection, and Dunn admitted to knowing that police were following him as he drove through the Loop.

The state dropped aggravated discharge of firearm charges against Minor during bond proceedings because prosecutors determined that he acted in self-defense against the unknown gunman, Murphy told Judge Mary Marubio.

Neither Dunn nor Minor have adult records.

Prosecutors charged Minor with aggravated unlawful use of a weapon. Dunn is charged with aggravated fleeing, leaving the scene of an accident involving injury, reckless driving, and traffic violations.

Marubio set bail at $200,000 for each man. They are each required to go onto electronic monitoring if they can post individual $20,000 deposit bonds to get out of jail, Marubio said.

Man fatally shot at Morse Red Line CTA station

A 26-year-old man was fatally shot Sept. 15 inside the Morse Red Line CTA station, police said. No one is in custody.

The victim was inside the station at 1358 W. Morse when a vehicle pulled up outside and opened fire on him, according to CPD. One round struck the victim in the abdomen, and he collapsed next to the turnstiles.

An ambulance transported the victim to St. Francis Hospital in Evanston, where he was pronounced dead.

Chicago police arrived at the scene very quickly and briefly chased a black Infiniti with chrome trim and a sunroof that they saw speeding from the scene. A CPD supervisor terminated the pursuit.

Investigators found about six shell casings at the scene. Area Three detectives are handling the case.

Parole escapee runs from cops, leaves 4-year-old in car with an AR-15 and heroin

A parole escapee left his 4-year-old daughter alone in his car "with an AR-15 rifle and a whole lot of heroin" when he decided to run from police Sept. 14, a Cook County judge said during a bond court hearing.

Two cops went to the 1500 block of W. North Ave. at 11:20 a.m. after a tipster said parole absconder Gilberto Bustamante was in the area, prosecutors said.

The uniformed officers pulled over when they saw Bustamante standing behind a car that had its trunk open. He ran, but the cops caught up with him less than a block away, and a five-minute battle broke out as the cops tried to arrest him, according to prosecutors.

During the brawl, Bustamante allegedly bit both officers, kicked one in the groin, tried to disarm one, and spit in both cops' eyes, mouths, and noses.

When police returned to Bustamante's car, they found $140,000 worth of heroin inside, with an AR-15 rifle sticking out of a shopping bag in the front seat, and Bustamante's young daughter sitting alone in the back seat, prosecutors said.

During questioning, Bustamante told police "they were lucky he didn't get into his car, or he would have shot them with his AR," said an assistant state's attorney.

Prosecutors charged Bustamante with Class X manufacture-delivery of a controlled substance, Class X felony armed violence, unlawful use of a weapon by a felon, two counts of aggravated battery of police, child endangerment, two counts of resisting, possession of ammunition, and other crimes.

He is also charged with previously threatening to burn the mother of his child and her car. Bustamante was also wanted by the state for failing to comply with the requirements of his parole and on a DUI warrant.

After hearing the state's lengthy presentation against Bustamante, Judge Mary Marubio said she believed there were many indications that he would not comply with the terms of a bail bond.

Marubio set bail at $500,000 and ordered him to go onto electronic monitoring if he can post a $50,000 deposit bond. However, Bustamante will also be held without bail while he deals with state parole authorities.

Man stabbed in Loop, another shot in River North

One man was stabbed, and another was shot during separate incidents in the downtown Sept. 16 and 17, according to police. No arrests have been made.

Most recently, a 38-year-old man was stabbed as he walked on the first block of W. Balbo in the Loop around 12:10 a.m. Sept. 17 according to CPD.

Police said the offender approached the victim on foot and stabbed him in the neck. CPD gave no motive for the crime. An ambulance transported the victim to Northwestern Memorial Hospital in serious condition.

Earlier, a 30-year-old man was shot in the head as he walked on the first block of W. Hubbard in River North, police said. The victim "was walking on the sidewalk when he heard shots and felt pain," according to a CPD statement.

He was taken by car to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center, where doctors listed him in serious condition.

The shooting victim is the 20th person to be shot in River North so far this year. The neighborhood had ten shooting victims through all of 2019.

Area Three detectives are investigating both crimes.

Woman seriously injured when hit-and-run driver accelerates into CTA bus stop

Police are trying to track down the man who drove his truck into a Loop bus shelter on Sept. 15, leaving a 61-year-old woman seriously wounded. The incident was captured on video by at least two witnesses.

It happened across from Grant Park in the 1100 block of S. Michigan around 11:45 p.m. The entire downtown area was filled with traffic as people celebrated Mexican Independence Day. However, police have not connected the hit-and-run driver to the celebration.

A video taken by Marissa Parra of CBS2 shows the red truck accelerating down Michigan Ave. with its tires squealing before it turns

Do a bird a favor, turn off the lights at night

Fall migration is a dangerous time for birds, especially when trying to navigate the cities they fly over.

One of the best ways to reduce bird mortality is to turn lights off in high rise buildings at night, when many species are moving.

The Chicago Audubon Society is now promoting a new Lights Out program in Chicago. Throughout the migratory seasons — the fall season started in July for shore birds and will likely run through early November — Lakefront and downtown buildings cut down on their decorative lighting and follow other guidelines, including extinguishing or dimming lobby lighting, and minimizing lighting in all perimeter rooms.

The western shore of Lake Michigan is a super-highway of sorts for migratory birds. And birds don't really understand about large cities with large buildings with windows and glass, ... and so birds will smack into them. It's a big problem for the birds. The light attacks them and their crashes into the windows disrupt their migration, many times resulting in death and injuries. Research has shown that birds just do not see glass.

The goal is to reduce the total light emitted from the building from 11 p.m. until feel of the neighborhood, as well as property values.

"There were lots of concerns about traffic and parking," Smith said. "The school is at a very busy corner across the street from the zoo where 40,000 people are coming through here a night, and lots of concerns about the look and feel of the building."

Ald. Smith said there will be a traffic impact study which is required under the law. "This is a very important issue for the community."

The alderman said there will be more community meetings on the planned development and the landmark status in the future.

Parker is looking at a 10-year expansion, and they are waiting to buy the next building on their list. In the meantime, they are answering charges in court that they bought the individual units fraudulently, and if found guilty, they may have to return the units to the owners they bought them from.

Parker representatives stated according to one report that the building's courtyard will be converted into an atrium, and a bridge will be built at the south end of the second and third floors to connect the building to the main building that houses about 930 students.

The alderman wished everyone a Happy Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year. The day the forum was held was on Mexican Independence Day, Sept. 17.

called 311, and each time the city would say there was an open ticket on their problem and that they were "working on it."

On occasion someone from the Water Dept. would come out. They would inspect, and Smith and her neighbor would run out and tell them what was happening. She says earlier this last winter, she saw two to three guys on the site. One worker went into the sewer and when he came out, he told them they had a broken pipe, 15' below street level.

"This is what we have been telling them each time we called," Smith wrote in an email. "Very aggravating."

This year Smith called the new 47th Ward alderman's office (Matt Martin) and told the entire story all over again. The woman she spoke with called her back and told her she had reached the Water Dept., and that there's a ticket open. She told her she knew that and just wanted someone to fix the problem associated with the ticket. She let her know that it's been open for a long time.

"Throughout the city you have underfunding of the Water Dept.," Andria Aguilar said.

The week of Feb. 17, Smith's nextdoor neighbor called again and the next week a crew was out and inserted a large tube into the sewer.

"I got very excited and thought maybe they were finally going to fix it," Smith said. "But all they did was vacuum out the standing water. So the symptoms went away for a while, but we had flooding again a few months later, as the water built up again."

Andria Aguilar, who is in charge of constituent services and community outreach for the 47th Ward Office, said there is an outstanding work order to fix the catch basin in the 3900 N. Seeley block. She said such requests are common in the ward and that they have had repeated meetings with the Water Dept. Aguilar said the Water Dept. says they do not have enough workers or machines to fix the sewers and other troubled areas in the city. There are work orders that are six months to one year overdue, she said.

"Throughout the city you have underfunding of the Water Dept.," Aguilar said. With many of the Water Dept. trucks now being used to block off Downtown streets from potential rioters, and work orders backing up, the 3900 block of N. Seeley may not see any action on their work order in the near future.

about not wanting to be forced to sell their homes.

Ald. Michele Smith [43rd], who hosted the meeting, said the landmark status must be resolved before Parker can go ahead with its plans.

The city is currently considering a proposal for a landmark district that would include the condo building Parker just bought.

Parker said it will continue to pay property taxes on the building it bought for the time being, but a concern was raised about whether the school would be willing to make up the tax loss that will result as the 19 condo homes convert into a non-profit school that pays no property taxes.

Parker Principal Dan Frank said no, they had no plans to make up the tax loss, but they did want everyone in Chicago to be able to afford Parker's tuition. Many public schools are losing enrollment as the city has gotten more expensive, while private schools like Parker are increasing enrollment.

Parker did not confirm one chat comment that the school has the second largest area per student of private schools in the city.

Principal Frank said Parker did not "sur-reptitiously" acquire the condo building because the owners came to the school and offered to sell the building. Parker had made previous bids on the condo building that were rejected in the past as unit owners complained that the school ruined the marketability of their homes because potential buyers would be deterred once they found out the school's plans.

Parker said it will continue to pay property taxes on the building it bought for the time being, but a concern was raised about whether the school would be willing to make up the tax loss that will result as the 19 condo homes convert into a non-profit school that pays no property taxes.
Parker Principal Dan Frank said no, they had no plans to make up the tax loss.

Another person asked if Parker would consider opening a satellite school in another area not in Lincoln Parker, and Frank said no, they only wanted one campus.

Another person commented that Parker has always been a good neighbor.

There were over 100 questions fielded at the online community meeting.

Ald. Smith said in summary that she noted there was overall support for Parker's plans, but there were several concerns that their expansion plans may change the turned themselves in the day after cops released the CTA surveillance images. Cops arrested McQuay about a week later when they recognized him at the Chicago-State Red Line CTA station.

Prosecutors charged McQuay with felony robbery, felony aggravated battery of a pregnant woman, and two felony counts of aggravated battery in a public place.

In June, they reached a plea deal with McQuay in which he took a sentence of probation, and the state dropped all of the charges except one count of aggravated battery in a public place.

7-Eleven Robbery

Around 3:45 a.m. July 21, two men walked into the 7-Eleven store at 3407 N. Halsted in the heart of Boystown. One of them, identified by prosecutors as McQuay, gathered a few items and walked around the store.

The clerk got suspicious and asked a co-worker to join him at the registers.

That's when the second man held his hand in his waistband, went behind the counter, and ordered the workers to "keep doing what you're doing or someone's going to get shot," prosecutors said.

The man took liquor, cigarettes, and "male enhancement pills" from behind the counter as he talked with McQuay, according to prosecutors. Both men then walked out of the store — McQuay took food items and some enhancement pills for himself, according to the allegations.

Police used the store's surveillance images to create an internal bulletin, and vancement of DePaul College Prep and its students.

DePaul Prep purchased the 17-acre campus and 120,000 square feet of academic buildings at 3300 N. Campbell Ave. in July 2019. The buildings on DePaul Prep's new campus are ADA accessible and equipped with technology, spacious classrooms, modern science labs and air conditioning.

Construction and renovations totaling $12.6 million in the Spring of 2020 included the addition of seven new science labs, four maker spaces, the St. Louise de Marillac Chapel, performing arts classroom and rehearsal space, a student-designed dining hall, an environmental studies urban garden, and a new 1,500 seat outdoor stadium and turf field for football, soccer, lacrosse, and a straightaway track.

Future plans for construction include an indoor athletic complex featuring three courts with a center competition court, above ground indoor track, strength and conditioning complex, locker rooms, wresling room, and a natatorium with a competition pool. The future athletic complex will be supported by the DePaul College Prep Foundation and the One Dream, All In! capital campaign. The One Dream, All In! capital campaign will also provide support for continued academic center renovations and an endowment. DePaul Prep is sponsored by the Congregation of the Mission (Vincentians) and operates in academic partnership with DePaul Univ. Students take college prep, Honors, AP, and International Baccalaureate classes. DePaul Prep is an IB World School offering the IB Diploma Programme. Students also have the opportunity to take dual enrollment classes at DePaul Univ. DePaul Prep faculty receive professional development and curricular support from the University's various colleges; student athletes and arts programs use facilities on the campus; and DePaul Prep students and faculty can utilize the University's research libraries. One hundred percent of its graduates are accepted to four year colleges and universities.
